TIGHT-LIPPED IS LORIMER.

Hurries to Chicago to See Backers.

Refuses to Discuss Reason of Sudden Trip, But Asserts He'll Stand Pat.

Gov. Deane Speeding East, Presumably to Confer with La Follette.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
CHICAGO, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator William Lorimer's arrival in the city this morning, following his secret conference with Senator Cullum in Washington and the Senatorial testimony given by Herman H. Bittler, President of the Helium Lumber Company, before the Helium Investigating Committee, Thursday, is considered significant.

It is believed by many that Senator Lorimer has returned to Chicago to confer with his chief political lieutenant, the course in view of returning his seat in the Upper House in order to avoid further disclosure by the legislative probes involving his friends.

This, however, was emphatically denied by the Senator. He declared that he had not in any way connected with the Helium investigation and that he was in Chicago to attend to private business interests and to spend Sunday with his family.

"I did have a conference with Senator Cullum," he said, "but the matter of my resignation was not mentioned. I do not care to talk of what was said between Senator Cullum and myself, but you can say that the bill was not discussed."

GO TO IT AND SPANK HER.

East St. Louis Judge Rules Husband May Chastise a Chattering Wife.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
ST. LOUIS, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After being out almost twenty-four hours, a jury in Judge Vandeventer's court, in East St. Louis, decided today that a husband has a right to spank his wife. The jury therefore refused to give a divorce to Mrs. Hannah Rebecca Yowell. Yowell testified that at 2 o'clock a.m., July 5, last, he got up and gave his wife a good spanking because she had kept him awake four hours talking to him. He then dressed and went to a neighbor's house and told about it. "He called me red head when he wanted to make me mad," said Mrs. Yowell, whose auburn locks attracted the eyes of many spectators.

A GUAPRIETA FOR CAPITAL.

Victory Swells Red Lopez's Head.

Declares Captured Town Will Be Made Headquarters of Rebel Government.

Insurrectos Control Railroad on Which Americans Rely for Ore Shipments.

Citizens of Douglas Petition President Taft to Take Steps for Safety.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)
AGUA PRIETA (Mex.) April 14.—In full possession of 1000 armed rebels tonight, the town of Agua Prieta, the principal port between El Paso and the Pacific, is to be made the headquarters of all rebel operations in the State of Sonora. It is openly boasted by the rebel commanders that they expect to establish here a provisional government for Sonora, and that the insurrecto officers for this purpose are now in Douglas, waiting for the word to cross the line.

With "Red" Lopez and his hand holding the town, following its capture yesterday, the rebels today were rushing their troops towards the place from three points of the compass east, west and south. With their men all assembled they expect to have a fighting force of 1500, with which they believe they can successfully combat any attack the Federals may make.

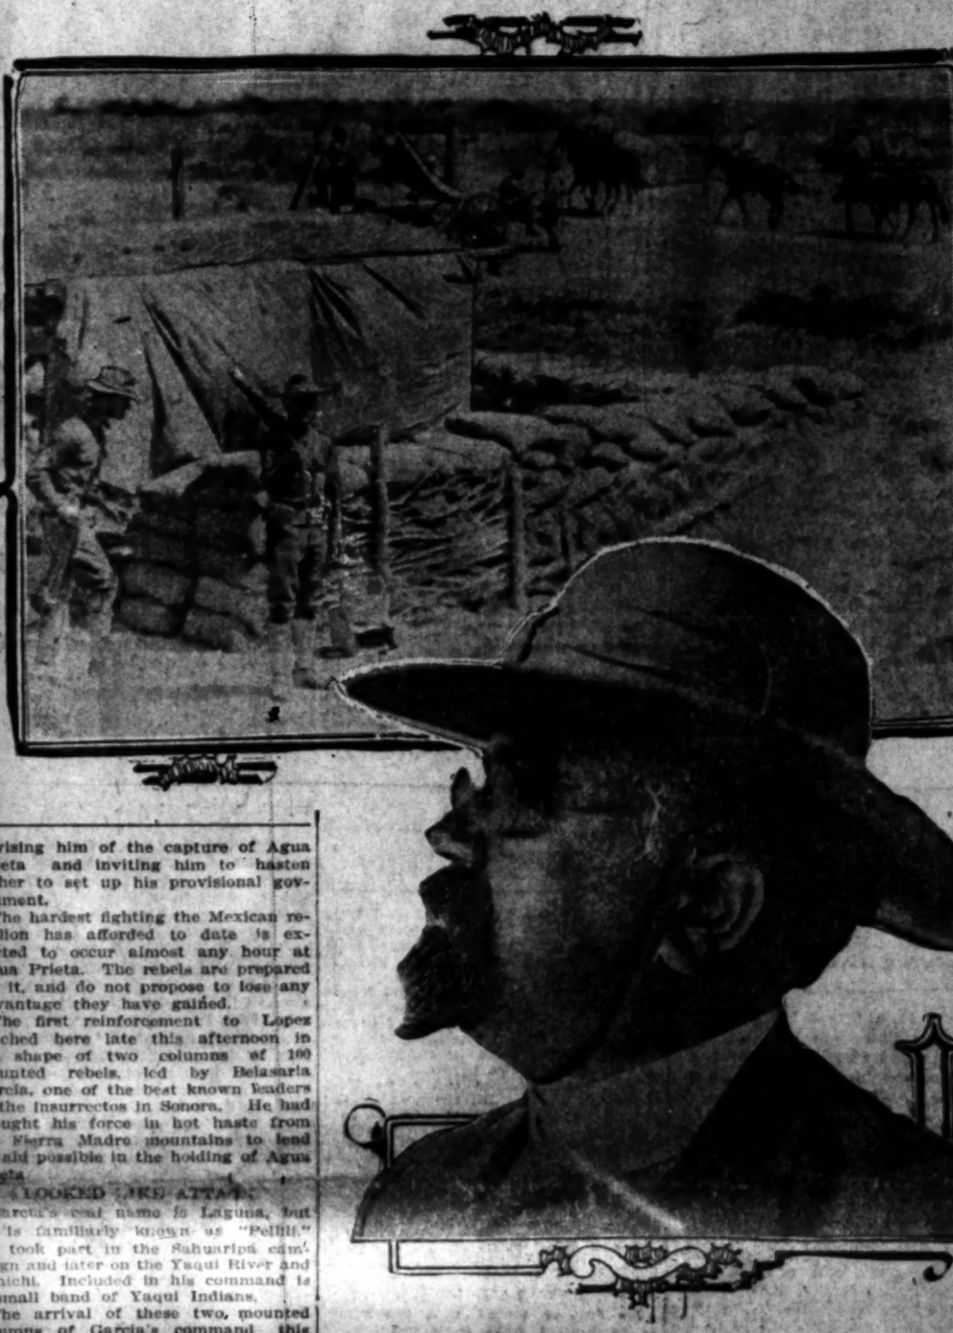

As dusk fell tonight rebel scouts far to the west were observing a long line of yellow dust rising on the Naco road. It is the belief of the scouts that this is not the force of Juan Cabral, which was expected to come up the Naco road during the day. Night closed with the rebels carefully observing the advancing column, and it is expected that a battle with nearly 2000 men engaged will be fought tomorrow morning, providing the advancing line proves to be the much expected Federal army which is supposed to be marching overland from Cananea. This line was fifteen miles away from Agua Prieta tonight.

MAY BE UNDER WOMAN.
The army advancing from the west may be a force under Madame Tolamantes, the widow of the colonel who was shot by Chiquita at Sahuaripa with his two sons. Col. Ojeda did not wish to execute Tolamantes when the Federals took the town, but Chiquita was not adverse and after taking out Tolamantes' two sons, whom he killed, he came to get Tolamantes at night. Tolamantes offered to pay $20,000 if his sons were spared, even though he himself was to be executed. He and two sons, however, were killed in the recruiting and it is claimed that they have a force of rebels in the Alta Mountains.

The rebel chief permitted the Naco road to run an automobile car down the line this afternoon to telegraph the advance of the rebels. Messages were transmitted to Naco this evening. The railroad is not damaged.

Madero has been sent a telegram.

Insurrectos and Americans on Border and New Official.

Angel Aguilar and Scene at Front.

Senor Aguilar is the new Mexican Consul at Calexico, of whom Gen. Bliss recently made demand for protection of American interests below the border. The upper picture is of a group of insurrectos near Mexicali, just across the border, which is guarded by United States soldiers, who are seen patrolling the line between the two countries.

MAYOL'S FORCES ON THE MOVE; DESTINATION PROFOUND SECRET.

BY JOHN M. STEELE.
(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

Calexico, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hidden under a haze of dust and out of hearing of each other, two opposing forces played hide and seek at the international boundary line today. One force was the Federal troops commanded by Col. Mayol; the other was the body of insurrectos which has been occupying Mexicali.

The Federal command broke camp at Little's ranch yesterday and began a slow advance toward the desert, their trail taking them along the south bank of the Rio Colorado, crossing the river south of Packard. Naturally, the Federal commander is not taking any one into his confidence as to the purpose of the movement, but it is reasonably certain that but two constructions can be placed upon it.

One is that he is on the way to protect the levee work in charge of Col. Ockerson, who, by special permission of the Mexican government, is allowed in Mexico for the purpose of constructing works to protect the Colorado River in Mexican territory. The other theory is that the advance is for the purpose of retaking Mexicali. Ranchmen who have come into town from near the scene of the Federal movement will not talk. They say that they have promised the Federal commander not to disclose any facts. Information received tonight to the effect that the Federal troops passed Calexico today, which would mean that the advance was in the direction of Col. Ockerson's camp. This is probably correct.

A body of insurrectos left Mexicali before dawn this morning, but returned shortly after noon. The movement was nothing more than a reconnaissance in force for the purpose of developing the position of Mayol's army, in which effort it was apparently not successful.

The Times correspondent visited Mexicali late this afternoon and found that characterized the insurrectos upon the occasion of his last visit, although some of the tales told by the men as they lounge about their camp would make Baron Munchausen appear like a four-flushing piker.

Few of the members of the band have any idea as to what they are fighting for. They apparently have no intelligent interest in the movement. They really do not appear to know whether they are fighting for freedom or just to keep going. New recruits arriving in the insurrecto camp apparently about balance the desertions that are constantly occurring.

Sympathizers with the insurrectos are circulating a petition protesting against the attitude of the United States troops stationed on the border. An attempt is made in the petition to show that the United States army is illegally and unwarrantedly interfering with American and Mexican citizens.

TWO HUNDRED LIVES MENACED BY ST. LOUIS FACTORY FIRE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Fire late today, due to an explosion, the cause of which has not been explained, endangered the lives of 200 persons, mostly women and girls, at the building at No. 817-19-21 Washington avenue, lofty used principally by manufacturers of men's and women's wear. All escaped except one youth, Robert Mayor, 19 years old, who was found dead of burns in an enclosed stairway on the fifth floor.

A patrolman, the first person outside the building to be apprised of the fire, climbed a fire escape and by following the flames and entreaties to the panic-stricken men and women scrambling upon the window ledges, turned them back to the safety exit.

Nearly a hundred women and girls on the seventh floor shrieked in terror in the belief that they were trapped, but one of their number discovered an exit to a roof adjoining, and they escaped by that way.

RECIPROCITY WILL PASS.

Canadian Bill Now Before House.

No Doubt Democrats Will Be Able to Put Through Their Programme.

Underwood and Daltzell Divide the Time for U. S. General Debate.

Chairman Says Vicious of President Accord With the Majority's.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Canadian Reciprocity Bill for was laid before the House before adjournment today, and a general debate, which will probably continue three days, will be in order. That such action will be taken is longer a matter for doubt, as the Senate majority has indicated by all doubt its ability to put through its legislative programme.

Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee called a Canadian bill at 5 o'clock. While time was fixed for general debate, a motion was adopted dividing the time is consumed between Mr. Underwood, who reported the bill, Representative Daltzell of Pennsylvania, who will lead the opposition, and Mr. Underwood, who will bring five hours of his time to Representative McCall of Massachusetts, author of the reciprocity measure passed the House last session, of which the pending measure is a counterpart. He also stated informally that he believes a decision should be reached in three days.

Speaking for the opposition Mr. Daltzell said he had no desire to obstruct the debate.

In the report of the Ways and Means Committee recommending the passage of the bill, Chairman Underwood said there has been no delay or question of delay on the part of the President in connection with this legislation pending the consideration of the tariff by the tariff on the other hand the President urged immediate and favorable action by the Congress, naming reasons in accord with long established economic principles.

"This reciprocal agreement in the interest of a great majority of the people of the country and is cord with the well-established economic principles of guarding the fare of the masses."

"The committee recommends the passage of the bill."

Grande of Pastor Against Gar and Laguerre Settling in Illinois Results in Attempt at Assassination.

Fisher, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Neoga, this morning, a bomb that had been placed in a building a few feet from the later's residence exploded. The pastor and his family were asleep. One was hurt, although the bomb was blown to bits and a corner of the residence was shattered.

Dr. Fisher says that he intends to stay in Neoga and will keep a close watch.

turned his attention to the worship of Baal, and destroyed it through the length and breadth of the northern kingdom, but failed entirely to attack the false system of worship which had been set up by Jeroboam at the disruption.
It was during this period that, as the chronicler declares, "Jehovah began to cut Israel short; and Hazael smote them in all the coasts of Israel; from Jordan eastward." Such were the movements in the northern kingdom.
Yet his fury was restrained by that august and awful government of God which is so patient in the whole history. Through the action of a woman, Jezebel, whom Josephus says was the wife of Jehoram the priest, one baby boy was saved from the slaughter. This was Joash. If there was one place in Jerusalem likely to be safe from the intrusion of such a woman as Athaliah, that place was the temple, and there for six years the child was preserved.
Our lesson gives the account of how, in the seventh year of his life this child was brought to the throne of Judah. Jehoram the priest, with the most scrupulous care, arranged for day and hour and method of his proclamation; and in connection therewith, Athaliah, the daughter of Jezebel, was slain; and Judah was restored for the time being, to a measure of strength and of safety.

see death." His life here ends, not in death, but in life—rich, full, eternal.
Conquer the fear of death by Christ, who conquered death itself.
Easter is the day of triumph. It tells of stones rolled away, of obstacles overcome, of sin and the grave mastered, and of the great victory, which is anonymous with life. The eternal defeat of the forces of darkness and death is celebrated at this anniversary. Christ has won the supreme conflict, and henceforth it is possible for the least of us to live a conquering and joyful life.
The life beyond glorifies our life here.
Christ's triumph over death is the guarantee of our triumph over sin. Because He has won, we may win. The power that broke the bands of death has been transferred to us that we may break the bands of sin. Christ rose that we, too, might rise; He lives to give us life.
We shall leave behind us in the grave all things that make this life burdensome.
Death is the great enemy. His presence fills the home with weeping, and his approach often strikes the heart with terror. Since the first Easter, though, there is no reason for fearing death. He is only the slave that opens the door to the King's presence. Surely we need not fear for the coming of the Master's servant, when he is sent with a summons from the living Master, Himself.
Since we can see an eternity of life stretching before us, we should cease from the sin that would shame us as a race hence.

CHARGE ROBBERY ATTEMPT.
Police Take Into Custody Man Who Was Arrested Last Summer as Boyle Heights Suspect.
Elmer Belk, who narrowly escaped being killed last summer by Patrolman Sweeney, from whom he fled when suspected of being the Boyle Heights rape fiend, is again in the toils. This time Belk is charged with attempted robbery.
The specific charge is that Belk is the man who, with Bernard Narvay last Wednesday night, when the two, it is alleged, knocked down and tried to rob W. E. C. Meadows, a private watchman, who was assaulted under the Santa Fe viaduct. Narvay was caught soon after the affair, but Belk escaped, hiding him behind a pile of ties in the railroad yards, but the other man escaped.
At about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Detectives Beaumont and Swan found Belk and placed him under arrest on the charge of being an accomplice of Narvay.
When the rape fiend had Boyle Heights terrorized last year and the police authorities kept men scattered throughout that district every night, Belk was seen by Patrolman Sweeney acting in a suspicious manner, peering in at the officer from behind the corners of a house and, in other ways, indicating that he was watching the police as if in fear of arrest.
When Sweeney tried to approach Belk, the latter fled across lots, with the officer shooting at him, but Belk escaped, hiding under a house a block away.
The man was released the same night, however, his strange actions being accounted for by the fact that he owed a small bill on some furniture, which was taken back by the dealer when he had promised to turn it over to him, and in lieu of rent, a trick which he thought would sell all the police in the city or his tracks.

THE TEACHING.
Over all this tumult and apparent chaos of human disturbances Jehovah is seen moving surely forward upon the pathway of His high purpose. His work is seen bringing its own results of terrible judgment, while the living God, who "kept the testimonies of Jehovah and sought Him with the whole heart." If that be granted then we discover of old and profound purposes of God are served by those who in hiding and seclusion are content to do work of a secret and unobtrusive kind, as to guard and nurture the life of one little child. The secret, however, of such willingness to be in the vision of the larger issues which may result from matters apparently so trivial. Upon all such workers the blessing of Jehovah must forever abide.

THE GOLDEN TEXT.
Surely the suggestion of the golden text chosen in that the blessing of Jehovah rested at this time upon Jehoram and Jehoram for during the six years of Athaliah's reign "he kept the testimonies of Jehovah and sought Him with the whole heart." If that be granted then we discover of old and profound purposes of God are served by those who in hiding and seclusion are content to do work of a secret and unobtrusive kind, as to guard and nurture the life of one little child. The secret, however, of such willingness to be in the vision of the larger issues which may result from matters apparently so trivial. Upon all such workers the blessing of Jehovah must forever abide.

THE STORY.
The story of the crowning of Joash is the culminating fact in a series of events which culminated in the restoration of the kingdom to David's line. To fail to notice them would be to break in upon the continuity of the history in such a way as to make it impossible to grasp the full meaning of the Divine activity in and through the chosen people. We must therefore trace the story of the crowning of Joash to the events referred to.
Taking up the story at the point where we left it in our last lesson, we find that the king of Israel, Hazael, had been slain by Elisha to Damascus, and of his meeting there with Hazael. This story links the mission of Elisha with the restoration of the kingdom to David's line. In the final commission of Elisha as king of Syria, John the Baptist was named as his own successor. In this visit of Elisha, part of that commission was carried out. We need not stay with this incident, but the fact is of importance, that with tears, as he foresaw the destruction which would inevitably come upon Israel through the instrumentality of Hazael, he did nevertheless declare to him that he would be king of Syria.
Then follows the account of how in Judah Jehoram succeeded to the throne, and marrying Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel, walked in the ways of the king of Israel. One of the first results of this defection in Judah was the revolt from Edom and Lihlah.
Jehoram reigned eight years, and was succeeded by his son Ahaziah, whose reign only lasted one year, and was characterized by all the sins of his grandfather. There Ahaziah, who was wounded, and went to Jezreel to be healed of his sickness. There he was visited by Athaliah. At this psychic moment when the king of Israel was sick and removed from his army and the king of Judah was with him, and away from his country and army, Elishah took the opportunity which undoubtedly he had been preparing and waiting. He sent one of the sons of the prophets to Ramoth-galilee, and he brought down to him the eunuch of Elishah to anoint John king of Israel. Then follow the terrible pages recording the sword and awful moments of death. He slew Joram, Ahaziah, Jezebel and took the throne of Israel, going forth he slew the seventy sons of Ahab, and the brethren of Ahaziah; thus, so far as he was able, sweeping out from Israel the whole of the descendants of Ahab. He next

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.
THE EASTER SPIRIT.
Terms Comments Upon the Christian Endeavor Text for April 15, "The Spirit of the Resurrection." Rom. 1:3-4.
BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.
The strength of Sunday observance is not in the law, but in the gospel. It is vain for the church to run aside from creating an appetite for the Lord's Day in the individual heart, to legal efforts to force its observance in Christian fashion, and to give up in the Lord's Day only by those who love the Lord, Himself.
Easter is a perpetual spirit, as well as an anniversary.
Easter is best kept by a rising from some dead past into newness of life.
The teaching of Easter has set flowers to blooming in all our cemeteries, and has made our burying grounds gardens.
Christians are sharers; they share the resurrection of their Lord, and they share His resurrection, and like Him, they share themselves with the world.
The Christian religion is pitched on an ascending scale. It begins with an emancipation, and it ends with an ascension. The path of the great alhines the day that is refulgent with the seen presence of the sun of righteousness.
It is always Easter on God's side of the grave.
"For liberty did Christ set you free,"—liberty to be old and do the best, liberty to rise above the old self and into an everlasting newness of life.
They who live for eternity should live as immortals. The price may not be the same, but the goal is the same. "Noblesse oblige." As a heavenly crown calls for heavenly conduct. The glory of the life eternal, the supernatural should be brought down to irradiate the earth by all who possess it as an inheritance. Only a triumphant Christ can give a person victory over his own baser self.
We have no right to use the word death as does the world. The believer, our Master, Himself, says, "I shall never see death." His life here ends, not in death, but in life—rich, full, eternal.

Conquer the fear of death by Christ, who conquered death itself.
Easter is the day of triumph. It tells of stones rolled away, of obstacles overcome, of sin and the grave mastered, and of the great victory, which is anonymous with life. The eternal defeat of the forces of darkness and death is celebrated at this anniversary. Christ has won the supreme conflict, and henceforth it is possible for the least of us to live a conquering and joyful life.
The life beyond glorifies our life here.
Christ's triumph over death is the guarantee of our triumph over sin. Because He has won, we may win. The power that broke the bands of death has been transferred to us that we may break the bands of sin. Christ rose that we, too, might rise; He lives to give us life.
We shall leave behind us in the grave all things that make this life burdensome.
Death is the great enemy. His presence fills the home with weeping, and his approach often strikes the heart with terror. Since the first Easter, though, there is no reason for fearing death. He is only the slave that opens the door to the King's presence. Surely we need not fear for the coming of the Master's servant, when he is sent with a summons from the living Master, Himself.
Since we can see an eternity of life stretching before us, we should cease from the sin that would shame us as a race hence.
SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS.
He, who possesses the love of his family, the respect of his friends and who believes in God, has happiness enough to triumph over all possible misfortune.—[From the French.]
Courage shall outlast the years. But every coward soul shall die.—[Griswold.]
Every iniquity is a first thought.—[Bartol.]
The path of duty is the way to glory.—[Tennyson.]
The finest man of all would be the one who could be glad to have lived because the world was chiefly miserable, and his life had come to help some one who needed it.—[George Eliot.]
Oh, human soul, as long as thou canst set up a mark of everlasting light To cheer those, and to right thee if thou roam, Thou makest the heaven thou hop'st indeed thy home.—[Matthew Arnold.]
The great highway of human welfare lies along the old highway of steadfast will doing.—[Smiles.]
CHARGE ROBBERY ATTEMPT.
Police Take Into Custody Man Who Was Arrested Last Summer as Boyle Heights Suspect.
Elmer Belk, who narrowly escaped being killed last summer by Patrolman Sweeney, from whom he fled when suspected of being the Boyle Heights rape fiend, is again in the toils. This time Belk is charged with attempted robbery.
The specific charge is that Belk is the man who, with Bernard Narvay last Wednesday night, when the two, it is alleged, knocked down and tried to rob W. E. C. Meadows, a private watchman, who was assaulted under the Santa Fe viaduct. Narvay was caught soon after the affair, but Belk escaped, hiding him behind a pile of ties in the railroad yards, but the other man escaped.
At about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Detectives Beaumont and Swan found Belk and placed him under arrest on the charge of being an accomplice of Narvay.
When the rape fiend had Boyle Heights terrorized last year and the police authorities kept men scattered throughout that district every night, Belk was seen by Patrolman Sweeney acting in a suspicious manner, peering in at the officer from behind the corners of a house and, in other ways, indicating that he was watching the police as if in fear of arrest.
When Sweeney tried to approach Belk, the latter fled across lots, with the officer shooting at him, but Belk escaped, hiding under a house a block away.
The man was released the same night, however, his strange actions being accounted for by the fact that he owed a small bill on some furniture, which was taken back by the dealer when he had promised to turn it over to him, and in lieu of rent, a trick which he thought would sell all the police in the city or his tracks.

ON FORGERY CHARGE.
George W. Baker, formerly an automobile salesman, and, until a few days ago, an insurance solicitor for Howard & Brundage, was arrested last night by Patrolman Farrell on a felony warrant issued on a forgery charge. He was taken to the City Jail and locked up. Mr. Brundage alleges that Baker defrauded him out of about $300 by forging the indorsement of the firm to checks and withholding payments made on premiums. Baker, who lived at No. 1534 Orange street, had been in the employ of the insurance firm about three months, working on commission, but when he asked for a salary of $250 a month, Mr. Brundage became suspicious, and he investigated, finding numerous irregularities. Brundage charges that Baker was trying to turn his business over to a competitor.

Workers engaged in digging the Rhone Canal at Marseilles, France, who went on a strike a few days ago, clashed with the police yesterday. During the march one policeman and seven workmen were wounded.

PUBLIC SERVICE: City Hall and Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Mayor and Council visited the city disposal station near Covina yesterday and report it without offense. T. Reynolds, charged with the killing of his wife, went with the jury to the old home yesterday, and over his dead wife's property. Judge Rives decided yesterday that estate of E. W. Eames must pay inheritance tax on 800 shares of capital stock of the Southern California Edison Company.

Joe Fred Wood yesterday decided the Santa Fe Railway must make to Mary A. Verberg, $108.40, as she invested in a ticket that burned before it could be used.

At the City Hall.

CITY OFFICIALS
SNIFF GARBAGE.CLOTHESPIN FOR NOSES
DON'T NEED 'EM.

Mayor and Councilmen Visit Disposal Station Near Covina and Return With Belief That There Is No Cause to Complain About—Will Be This Stand at Conference.

Official smelling committee visited the garbage disposal station, two and a half miles south of Covina, yesterday and reports that it found all well and reports that it found all well and reports that it found all well.

The committee included the mayor, Inspector Humphreys and city councilmen Lusk, Stewart, Whitten, and Andrews.

Stewart took along a staff of clothespins for noses, in case the odor became too strong, they were not used.

A committee had a car of garbage and so the wind would waft what odor might be emitted, but the odor was discouraging in detecting odor, they all report. Then they approached the disposal station in the face of the wind, but could detect any odor until they were in sight of it.

Which convinces the Mayor and the council that the station is at a point offensive to the county than any other, though they didn't say so.

They say the location and the conditions of the station are not offensive, and this attitude will show by the action at the conference the supervisors to be held next day afternoon.

Nearest human habitation is a from the station and its occupants do not sign any protest, saying could never know the garbage was there.

If he hadn't been told, addition the committee saw and the garbage as it is fed to pigs on wooden platforms. The committee is unable to see any openings to minimize offense to sight or smell. Hogs are hogs, garbage is garbage, they say, were as sweet as they could be.

DELAYS ACTION.

ANNEAATION PROBLEM. Whether the Council may call an election to pass on the annexation of the territory north of the city, asked in a year-old petition filed on the last, is in the hands of the Attorney by action of the Council.

Public Welfare Committee yesterday committee was met with opposition from some of the residents of territory sought to be annexed, on ground that the petition had been in March, 1910, and withdrawn by that fact rendered in force now. It was also urged the petition does not conform to Hewitt act, just signed by the governor, as it does not provide for appointment of municipal funds in the new territory.

As it concerns the Arroyo Seco, said they were ready to get petition for a smaller territory to one on file is held in the hands of the city.

Commissioner Randall with the purpose of the Arroyo Seco lands into the and afterward condemning them park purposes under the annexation district plan. But the plan to city, the county and South Pasadena, to join in the construction of a line over the arroyo at Pasadena, due interference and still interferes the annexation action.

A City Attorney has been asked report on the legal phases at the meeting of the Council May 2, when action will be taken.

SQUATTERS HOMES.

MODEL VILLAGE PLAN. The Model Village Corporation may begin its work of the townships north of the old graveyard near Broadway. It will have to decide whether it wants to take over another "model" village of another kind is now on the tract. This old village is composed of the houses by tenants of the city who pay rent for the privilege of sitting on the city's land. Many of them have been there for fifteen years or more.

The Public Welfare Committee was using the grant to the Model Village Corporation yesterday when it was shown that the most of the available land in the tract, most of it being ill-land, is already occupied by squatters. Before going further, a report was asked from the Building and Planning Committee as to the rights of the tenants and a conference with the Model Village Corporation will be held when it is ready to proceed.

At the committee decided that the line should stand in the way of the anthropological social experiment, even the squatters must move.

Fire Limits Protest.

The Public Welfare Committee has heard the protest against the extension of the fire limits to the corner of Figueroa street to the Council for consideration with the ordinance on April 25. The City Attorney is expected to report the ordinance limit next Tuesday.

Ban on Milk Cans.

In ordinance to prevent milk cans in making noise or rattling is possible if the protest against the ordinance of the Los Angeles Sanitary Company, Twelfth street and Towne avenue, is regarded seriously by the Council Committee on before the next meeting. Chairman Stewart, who is a creamery expert, said no means have been found to eliminate the rattle from an empty can, but he believed the agency of such noise may be, or has been, minimized by greasing the spiral carrier. There is yet possibility that a drastic ordinance against milk-can noise may result from the investigation.

Industrial District.

The Hollywood Lumber Company has petitioned the Council to designate the area bounded by Seward, Santa Monica, Emelia streets and the west city boundary as a new industrial district.

SLAYER OF WIFE
DIVIDES ESTATE.REYNOLDS HANDS OVER GOODS OF DEAD WOMAN.

Brother of slain spouse of the Lankershim Rancher Receives Her Property at Settlement Made at Scene of the Crime.

Judge Rives yesterday dismissed the estate of Louise Reynolds, who was killed by her husband, Charles T. Reynolds, at Lankershim, February 14. The contest was set for hearing in the probate department but the contention was amicably settled.

Yesterday Reynolds, accompanied by the father, George Gallagher, and Walter E. Herzinger, brother of the murdered wife, went to the home where the Reynolds family lived previous to the killing. There Reynolds proceeded to divide up their belongings. He gave Herzinger the diamonds that belonged to the dead woman, cut glass valued at $500 and the deeds to two lots on Central avenue, this city, said to be worth $2000.

At the time of the filing of the petition of Walter E. Herzinger, asking for his appointment as administrator of his sister's estate, it was alleged that the separate estate of the woman consisted of property worth about $5700. With the division of the property, and the turning over to the heirs of the wife what is considered her share of the estate, there will be no further litigation along that line.

AFTER 'EM AGAIN.

GOT JUDGMENT; WANT MORE. William W. Wurzbarger, husband of Beale Wurzbarger, who some months ago secured a judgment for $11,500 against R. W. Pridham, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors, broke into court yesterday with another demand involving the same accident. Now he is suing the entire Board of Supervisors for the loss of the services of his wife, cost of her care, etc.

The amount asked for is $19,125. The accident happened on the road leading from Glendale toward the foothills, a continuation of Brand boulevard. The action was in line with the law making road supervisors financially responsible for accidents occurring on highways in their supervisory district, where negligence is shown. That provision of the law was repealed by the recent Assembly, and Judge Houser has granted R. W. Pridham, against whom the judgment was secured, a new trial.

In both cases C. J. Nellis, H. D. McCabe, C. D. Manning, S. T. Eldridge, R. W. Pridham and the American Bonding Company of Baltimore, are defendants. In the trial of the action brought by Mrs. Wurzbarger Judge Houser held that if there was any financial responsibility anywhere, it must be on Supervisor Pridham, in whose district the road in question is located.

ONE SISTER PREFERRED.

SHE GETS ENTIRE ESTATE. The final accounting of John Elder, administrator of the estate of Alice L. Chevallier, and order of distribution day by Judge Rives. The total amount were approved and allowed yesterday for which the administrator was accountable was $3,582.36, and the credits for the time covered by the report were $10,094.68, leaving $24,337.68 for distribution. The expenses of administration further reduce this amount to $18,577.75, and under the terms of the will the entire estate goes to Louise C. Holmes of this city, a sister of the testator.

Miss Chevallier died under peculiar circumstances some four years ago, and it was shown that she was a defaulter in her position as cashier of one of the well-known Broadway stores. Evidence was given to indicate that she had committed suicide.

About two years ago, Marie Hartung, a sister and wife of a bank cashier at Anaheim, instituted an action to set aside the will of Miss Chevallier on the ground that she was not of sound mind and disposing memory at the time of the execution of the will. She did not succeed in her attack upon the document.

RAILROAD LOSSES.

TICKET LOST; CASH REFUNDED. Judge Fred V. Wood, yesterday laid down the doctrine that, under certain circumstances, a railroad company is compelled to refund the price of a ticket that was unused and lost. The decision is something new in the recent history of California litigation and establishes a precedent.

About a year ago, Mary A. Verberg purchased a first-class ticket for a trip East and back, on the Santa Fe, paying $108.40. The day before starting on the contemplated trip, she burned a lot of rubbish about the house and yard, and afterward, the ticket was also destroyed.

The purchaser then called upon the railroad company and asked that either the money be returned to her, or that she be given another ticket. The corporation would do neither.

Mrs. Verberg brought suit to collect the price of the ticket and Judge Stephens decided against the railroad. The case was then carried up on appeal to the Superior Court, and Judge Wood affirmed the position of the lower court.

It was claimed by the railroad that under the rules of the line there could be "no refund" but, as a ticket had been burned, it was impossible to follow the rule laid down.

Backus, City Building Inspector, from interfering with the construction of the surgical ward and building at the County Hospital. Charged with obtaining a $25-photograph and a dozen records under false pretenses, Miss B. H. McDonnell was yesterday arrested by Patrolman Krug. She will be arraigned this morning in Police Judge Houser's court.

According to the arresting officers the woman obtained the property from the J. B. Brown Music Company, March 8, after she had represented to that concern that her name was Mrs. C. C. Colburn. She said she was the company's fictitious daughter. The machine was delivered to the address given, and was immediately taken in by the McDonnell woman. When the collector went around later it is alleged that he was informed that no such woman had ever lived there.

SHOWS NO EMOTION. Menge, Accused of Having Murdered His Son, Is Held for Trial in the Superior Court.

C. F. Menge, accused of having, on March 16, murdered his son, Charles J. Menge, by shooting him through the head with a rifle at the family home, No. 325 Center street, was yesterday held to the Superior Court without bail, by Police Judge Chambers.

Menge appeared in court with his counsel, and seemed little affected by the tragedy. He showed no emotion when he beheld the body in a mortuary. Even when another son, Al Menge, who witnessed the fight that precipitated the shooting, related the details of the tragedy, he failed to be moved.

The preliminary examination occupied less than an hour. But four witnesses were summoned by the prosecution. Mrs. Menge, her daughter and son, Police Detective McNamara, who made the arrest, and Coroner's Physician, Deputy Dist. Atty. Doran conducted the prosecution.

validity of the Los Angeles municipal power and harbor bonds which was decided in favor of the city in the trial court, was submitted without argument. At the request of City Attorney Shook, the case was advanced on the calendar and it is likely that an early decision will be given on account of the importance to the city of learning immediately the opinion of the highest authority in the State.

The court will not again convene in the Bullard Block, where it has held forth for many years. The lease on the present quarters will expire May 1 and the rent has been advanced from $150 to $250. The court will not stand for the raise.

Grant Taylor, the clerk, is anxious to get a fireproof place for the records. Partly on this account, efforts are being made to arrange with the county to move the clerk's office into the new Hall of Records. If this can be done, the court will maintain no permanent rooms, but will arrange to hold its sessions in one of the Superior Court rooms during the few days it is in session in Los Angeles, twice a year.

BEATEN BY UNINITIATES. Messenger Boy Reports to the Police About Having Been Assaulted and His Wheel Being Stolen.

Arthur Clark, employed by the Western Union as a messenger boy, reported to the police yesterday that messenger boys employed by the Western District Messenger Company, assaulted him Thursday night and stole his wheel, because he refused to join the union.

The boy bore several bruises as a result of his encounter with the youthful toughs, and, owing to his inability to obtain another wheel, was forced to walk about town with his messengers. The matter will be investigated by the police detectives, and an example made of the members of the unionite club.

Young Clark worked for the Western Union before the strike and incurred the hatred of the youthful unionites, because he refused to leave his messengers in the lurch and follow their red standards. On numerous occasions, according to the youth, his wheel has been tampered with by union messenger boys, and temporarily put out of commission. He did not report the preliminary encounters, but yesterday upon the advice of his employers called at police headquarters, and told his story.

It is very probable that not only the boy's assailants will be forced to answer to a charge of battery, but the one who took the bicycle may have to face a felony charge.

ARREST ALLEGED FUGITIVES. Two Men, Wanted on Forgery Charges, Found in This City and Held for Other Authorities.

Two fugitives from justice were arrested for forgery yesterday afternoon by Police Detectives Home and Carroll. One gave the name of Milo McKim while the other was booked as Charles Mitchell.

McKim is wanted by the police of Spokane, while Mitchell was sought by the police authorities of Colorado Springs. The latter was residing with his family on North Hill street when taken into custody while McKim was living at Pico and Hill streets with his wife.

McKim, while at Spokane, was in the contracting business. Both prisoners deny the charge, and advance the theory that they were taken into custody by mistake. They will be held in the City Jail until officers arrive from Spokane and Colorado Springs for them.

THE THRESHOLD OF HOPE.

To See the Baby Girl Again.

BY J. MARVIN NICHOLS.

Another Easter is about to dawn! Another universal call has come to human hearts. We shall meet on common ground tomorrow.

Around their voiceless dead will gather pagan and Christian alike, each feeling out into the dim unknown, it happily he may touch the latch-string of the gateway, beyond which roam the spirits of their disembodied dead.

Easter morning! How one thought stamps its image as the other flies! It is not a question of the Christ-religion, only as that belief enlarges the common, inborn sense that somewhere, somewhere we shall meet again.

Here the heathen builds his altar and burns incense in the hope of the land where he shall meet his dead again. Here the Indian stops to catch a foregleam of his confederate's happy hunting ground. Here the pagan dreams of the immortals. Here the Christian reverently kneels beside a flower-strewn mound and sees through tears the land where the immortal spirits stray.

Yes! This is earth's common ground. Theology draws no line here that would make less the hope of any man. Intellectual viewpoints may enlarge and glorify the passion of the resurrection, but they can never make less vivid the supreme thought that we shall meet again beyond the vale of tears.

Easter! The holy day! The Sabbath of all our Sabbaths! The day when a world halts at the tomb whose seal was broken and whose sleeping dust came forth to light and life. The day when the universal heart receives afresh the pledge of its innermost longing—the resurrection of the dead.

In the light of this Easter Day, and after all, death is but a "sleep." What a beautiful figure! The hour of slumber when all our wasted energies are rebuilt. At last, what we call death is the hour when we draw about us the draperies of our couch and lie down to pleasant dreams.

Anemones have been known to spring into bloom from seed buried in the ruins of an ancient city for over 2,000 years.

The doctrine of the resurrection is the anemone of the gospel.

With the freshness of a new-blown flower, it has been waited over the apostate ages and decaying centuries. Across the chasm of changing creeds and shifting faiths the universal race waves its last and farewell and shouts exultantly: "I believe in the resurrection of the dead!" It's the slogan of the world. Easter Day will bring to millions a sweet dream of the intolerable beyond the valley where the clouds swing low.

What sublimity religion lends to the deeper conception. They shall sleep, but not forever; there will be a glorious dawn!

A more pregnant illustration is not to be found—sleep. Profoundly restful! It is undisturbed by even the thought of time. Profoundly satisfying! Its argument is life, its triumphant consummation a glorious awakening.

We dread the charnel-house because of unmeasured years that may antedate the resurrection. To sleep forever in a damp and narrow grave is a thought intolerable. We forget that a peaceful slumber takes no cognizance of the flying years. The devout soul knows that—

Beyond the flight of time, Beyond the reign of death, There is surely some blessed clime Where life is not a dream, but lies Nor life's affections, transient fire, Whose sparks fly upward and expire.

Easter Day always brings to me the consolation that came to me in an hour when I stood beside the coffin of a baby girl—my first-born, now long since gone. How frail are the things of time! With what unavailing protest do we surrender our earthly chattels!

And this is the end of it all! Of my waiting and my pain—Only a little funeral pall, And empty arms again.

How shall I know my own? Where the air is white with wings; My baby, so soon from my bosom down, To the angel's mustering!

I may never see the same flesh that was swallowed up in the grave—not likely. It has fled itself away in a thousand different forms. Her dust has gone to the four winds of the under-world.

I know the farmer sows a grain of wheat to perish that it may live. I know that I shall reap a grain of wheat exactly like the one that died.

Identify! That's the mighty thought in the resurrection of the body. This mortal flesh shall "clothe" itself with immortality. I wish I could pass to you the thought that burns in my mind and heart. I wish you could grasp the wondrous conception that the immortal body shall be "like" the mortal.

When I reach the land of the immortal I shall know my baby girl. From out that innumerable throng about the throne there shall come the girl that I buried in the years of the long ago.

The charnel-house, wherein slumbers the dust of my first-born, is too impotent to forestall the redemption of her tiny form. She is my will-dower that died to live again in the garden of the skies.

I await the hour of glad reunion, for I know that—

Thus star by star declines, Till all are passed away, As morning high and higher shines To pure and perfect day, Nor sink those stars in empty night, They hide themselves in heaven's own light.

Getting Warm.

no other apparatus than an accurate stopwatch, is the acoustic method. Any sharp sound, such as a quick whistle, or report which may be differentiated from the noise of the machine itself, will be returned to the ear of the operator in the form of an echo from the surface of the earth. If, therefore, the time elapsing between the sound and the echo be noted, the corresponding distance may be estimated from the known velocity of sound.

Taking the velocity of sound at 1100 feet per second, or a little more than 100 feet for a tenth of a second, and remembering that it is the double distance, going and returning, which is thus computed, the error of observation would be between fifty and sixty feet for one-tenth of a second. This method is also liable to variations, due to differences of temperature and of layers of variable density in the atmosphere and is more available for a quiet balloon than for a noisy aeroplane.

The downpour of rain that sometimes follows a flash of lightning is usually supposed to be due to the coalescence of fine drops on losing their electrical charge, but Laine, a Finnish observer, has found reason to adopt a new theory. He concludes that the thunder jars the drops together. Near Vasa, a heavy thunderstorm came up from the east late one August afternoon, and as the sun was unclouded, a brilliant double rainbow appeared from horizon to horizon. At each roll of thunder the rainbows seemed to me much shaken, the edges being displaced and the colors blurred. This could not be due to the lightning, and it seemed that the same cause might enlarge the raindrops and disturb the rainbows.

For preventing dampness in walls the novel method of imbedding porous tubes perpendicularly to the surface has been devised by M. Kuappen, a Belgian architect. The air of the tubes is relatively dry, corresponding to that of the interior of the building, and by capillary attraction moisture is continually absorbed from the wall. Vaporization reduces the temperature of the air in the tubes, setting up a circulation, warmer and drier air constantly replacing the cold, damp air. Spaces are left in new walls for the tubes, which are not inserted until the mortar has set, and they are placed close enough together to insure action upon the whole wall. This plan is said to have been satisfactorily tested at Versailles.

That the world's future power will come from the use of the direct radiation energy from the sun as electric energy, cumbersome and inefficient heat engines and wind plants being discarded, is the prediction of Prof. L. T. Osmond of the Pennsylvania State College. The great problem now is, how to utilize the sun's electromagnetic energy directly as electric energy for mechanical power, and he believes that a tenth of one of the Carnegie research millions would bring the solution.

Helium, the "sun metal," thus named because it was found in the sun by spectroscopic observation before it was known to exist on the earth, appears to exist in perceptible quantities in a number of minerals exuded from Vesuvius, and also in the air about Naples. Prof. A. Platt has examined a new method the gas emitted by several Vesuvian minerals, and finds that helium is often present. He has detected its presence in so small a quantity of ordinary air as three and a half cubic centimeters.

In a recent lecture before the British Institute of Electrical Engineering, Sir W. Eccles made a startling declaration to the effect that the weather of the island of Great Britain could be controlled by means of electricity. The entire island would have to be girded with an electrical "defense" capable of warding off the vapors of the sea and preventing them from precipitation on the land. The sunlight hours could thus be increased as desired.

Yawning in fishes is one curious discovery announced by Richard Elmhurst. The mouth opens wide and the interior cavity slowly expands, the gill arches are erected, and this, followed by a rapid expulsion through the mouth and gill slits of the indrawn water. The movement is quite different from that of removing a bit of seaweed from the gills. The peculiar action has been watched in plaice, cod, salmon and other fishes, and is believed to serve the flushing of the brain with blood during a period of sluggishness, which is the true physiological purpose of yawning. Slight increase of water temperatures and lessening of oxygen seem to promote yawning.

"But why does your father object to me?" demanded the fumble sailor.

"Because," explained the haughty beauty of proud lineage, "papa says his ancestors have always been gentlemen of leisure, and you have to work for a living."

"Well, tell him I don't expect to after we are married," replied the humble sailor.

WHAT IS RACE SUICIDE?

Since his return from Africa, Col. Roosevelt has worked as much havoc with his rapid-firing tongue among the sober citizens of America as his repeating rifle effected among the wild beasts of the jungle.

He has antagonized the law profession, trounced the stalwarts of his own party, and—most fatal error of all—brought down on his own devoted head a storm of invective from the massed women of the republic.

In a recent article in the Outlook Roosevelt said, in reference to the whole duty of married women: "When quantity falls off, thanks to willful sterility, the quality will go down, too. The race can not go ahead, it will not even keep its numbers, if there are less than four children to the family."

Mrs. Martha Townsend, treasurer of the Woman's Political Union, in criticizing the whole article, remarks: "Roosevelt is a fool and a four-dasher. Let him arrange for his own offspring, but for heaven's sake let him shut up about the rest of America."

Mrs. Arthur Fish says, somewhat unpatriotically, "Imagine a woman going through all the unnecessary suffering of childbirth just to do service to the state!" Mrs. Raymond Brown sums up the general views of her sex on the gospel of big families in the following epigram: "America is in much more danger from the prophet than from the perils of race suicide."

The sweeping assertion that the race will suffer unless there are four children in any family is as logical as to say that a hundred nickels are worth more than ten ten-dollar bills. Is Col. Roosevelt's statement that the quality of the race depends wholly on its breeding capacity born out by the laws of nature? The most prolific breeder in the animal kingdom is the common house fly; the slowest to propagate is the elephant; yet who would trade one elephant for 20,000,000 house flies?

Neither does history corroborate the colonel's contention. Rome just previous to its downfall was increasing rapidly in population, in luxury and in enervation. Baby-ton, the most populous city the world has ever seen, was almost annihilated in one night by the hardy, slow-breeding desert men of Persia and Arabia. It is true that the majority of the births, both in Rome and Babylon, at the time of their decadence, were illegitimate, but, if quality is simply and solely dependent on quantity, immorality should not change the result. The people of India and China multiply more rapidly than the peoples of America and Great Britain, yet this fact has not made the Mongolian race-type more virile and robust than the Caucasian.

The fact that the birth rate diminishes steadily as the scale of mentality increases—in the lower animals, in nations, in individuals—proves that quality does NOT depend on quantity; and only a bigot would contend that sixteen half-starved, half-begotten, half-formed, pitifully helpless children, thrust upon a harassed, overworked woman, incapable through sheer stress of circumstances of properly caring and providing for them, are better for the race than one or two well-fed, strong-limbed, active-brained boys or girls who are so formed because their maintenance is well within the means of the average hardworked, busy man and woman.

To fall away from the religious faiths of our fathers, to be lax in enforcing the laws of the land, to become the prey of such experimentalists, to marry with thoughts of the divorce court as an incentive, to breed children from unworthy motives, this is the real race suicide from which springs the corruption and ruin of nations.

RECIPROCITY AND CALIFORNIA.

It looks as if the Canadian reciprocity bill would pass the House of Representatives. If the Senate shall accept the measure it will become a law, and the farmers of the Middle West and Northwest will have an opportunity to figure whether cheaper lumber will make up to them what they will lose in selling their grain, fruit and dairy products in competition with the Canadian output of those articles.

He is a very uncanid or a very obtuse person who does not see that reciprocity with Canada will work to the disadvantage of California. Our people will never import a single carload of grains, vegetables or fruits from the Dominion of Canada. California barley, which is now shipped East by the trainload, would come in competition with Canadian barley, hauled one-tenth of the distance. Some small advantage might be gained—to the disadvantage of California lumbermen—by importing lumber from British Columbia, but not much, for, unlike the lake region of the Middle West, whose once extensive forests have been stripped of their largest trees, the forests of Puget Sound and of Alaska have hardly been touched, and the redwood timber of the northern coast range, and the sugar pine forests of the central and northern Sierras will supply cheap lumber for all local needs for many generations.

The chief hurt that California will suffer from Canadian reciprocity will be in the precedent that it will establish. That precedent will not be applicable to European or Asiatic countries, from which we are divided by oceans, but it will apply directly and forcefully and inexorably to our southern neighbor, whose territory adjoins ours more closely than that of Canada, for the Mexican frontier is a land frontier, while that of Canada is largely a lake frontier.

How can we consistently, or reasonably, or decently grant reciprocity to Canada and deny it to Mexico? Whenever the proposition shall be presented it is most probable that it will be adopted by a larger majority than Canadian reciprocity will receive. The New England and Middle State manufacturers will desire free Mexican wool, and all of the people north of Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas—where alone citrus fruits can be grown—will desire free Mexican oranges and lemons.

With the duty on these fruits removed, the product of the Mexican orchards, cultivated by peon labor, would drive California fruit out of the eastern markets, and our orchardists could cut down their trees and cultivate alfalfa and sugar beets instead. The profits would not be so great, but they would still have the climate of California to console them, while they made ready to cast an adverse ballot against the re-election of any California Senator or Congressman who disregarded the interests of his own constituents and supported Canadian reciprocity.

STRONG DRINK IS RAGING.

If it requires 15,000 soldiers to quell a champagne riot in France, what show has one individual in an American cafe where the cor's pop to the tune of "A Hot Time?"

PRACTICAL SURGERY.

Oakland physicians operated on a woman to cure her of a desire to steal. We believe we could suggest an operation that would cure the deadly habit of gossiping.

USUALLY WRONG.

The Democratic party has always exhibited great capacity for self-destruction. It will not now go back on its magnificent record. It will be sure to do the wrong thing for itself at the right time for its opponents.

WILL NOT FORGET.

"When I forget the grand principles of Democracy," said Billy Bryan in his "re-orientation" in a speech made by him in Congress many years ago, "may my God forget me." "Do not forget you," remarked Tom Reed—not altogether sotto voce—from an adjacent seat. "He will see you damned first."

GETTING RICH.

A brawley man hauling sand to pave the streets of the city struck gold-bearing ore and the road builders stopped to file mining claims on the discovery. A simpler and safer method of getting rich would be to secure a warranty deed to a small building lot anywhere in Los Angeles. This is as certain as heat a gold mine in the future as it has been in the past.

BAD WHIST PLAYER.

After many years the people of the country have, with the aid of insurance Republicans, at last dealt the Democrats a good hand at whist. But the uninsured don't know how to play it. Bryan will lead from a sneak and when his partner, Champ Clark, takes the trick with a king and returns his lead with an ace of the same suit, Billy Boy will be sure to trump his partner's trick.

DERELICT HUSBANDS.

If husbands would strive to make home attractive, wives would not be driven to coquette clubs for society and entertainment. But when creation's lord comes home at 2 o'clock in the morning, vainly endeavoring to open the night latch with a lighted cigar and, discovering his error, pounds on the door, and when the night-capped avenger appears and says, "Mr. Jones, why did you not use your latch key?" replies—"My dear, I inadvertently smoked it." Things have come to a pass which justifies woman's clubs.

AN EQUINE REFERENDUM.

The power and the beauty of the referendum were illustrated yesterday noon on the corner of Broadway and Fifth street, when two black horses attached to a loaded wagon repealed the law of "move on." They blocked the stream of traffic and for an hour caused trolley cars that were westwardbound to await in long procession the outcome of the equine referendum. In vain did the driver ply his whip. The only result was to cause the horses to lift their narratives and seek to apply the Johnson policy with their heels to the dashboard of the wagon. The bystanders as usual proffered humane suggestions. "Build a fire under them," said one—but there was no fuel available. "The torpedoes to their tails," said another, but the Fourth of July supply of that article had not yet reached the stores. "Put gravel in their ears," said a third. But the nearest supply of gravel was in the bed of the Los Angeles River. Then two myrmidons of the law advanced, and whispered in their ears, "Lissner directs you to proceed." One of them started, but the other said "neigh, he is not my boss." Then a wise old guy procured two wisps of alfalfa and danced it in front of their noses. The blockade was broken and congested traffic ceased to congest.

TAFT.

"If Taft succeeds in negotiating an arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain," said a Mississippian Democratic Congressman, "and if France comes in, and if Germany co-operates, and if Japan joins, and if the other powers likewise agree to establish universal peace and provide for a general disarmament of nations, why, then, Taft will be immortal as a benefactor of mankind and invincible as a candidate for President."

There are a lot of "ifs" in the way. If the sky should fall we could all catch larks. In the meantime, in order to avoid possible errors, omissions and mistakes in the programme, maybe we had better build half a dozen 30,000-ton Dreadnoughts and fortify the Panama Canal and our Pacific ports, and double the strength of our army, and increase the number of our guns. We can prepare for a possible war for less than $2,000,000,000 for lack of preparation. The best security for peace is the most tremendous preparation for war.

The enthusiastic Missouri Congressman may be read out of his party if he does not look a little out. Will he sacrifice a chance of Democratic success merely to preserve the peace of the world? Will he favor international arbitration at the cost of putting Taft in office and keeping out of office Democrats who are exceedingly hungry and more than exceedingly thirsty? Will he consent to spike the Democratic cannon along with all the other guns in the world, agency to let Moloch out of business. Call you this lacking your friends?

FACTS FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN.

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: With the vogue of the Dutch and sailor collar and the peasant neck, it is necessary to give especial care to the neck. Where a discoloration has resulted from the use of high collars or stocks, a lotion composed of equal parts of Pond's extract and peroxide of hydrogen will be found beneficial. In applying this, you should be careful not to let the hair be touched as the peroxide will bleach it instantly.

I spent a pleasant hour the other day, in one of the exclusive stores on Broadway, looking at the new gowns for afternoon wear. There were some charming confections of silk, chiffon and mousseline each carrying out some characteristic widely different from the others.

The latest fad for combining silk with wool goods was illustrated in some striking frocks. For example, a one-piece afternoon dress of flag blue silk in softest weave, had a deep band of serge around the edge of the skirt and the same material was employed as a sailor collar and in deep cuffs as well as to form a sash. The costume was brightened by the novel use of ribbon ornaments in a bright red, poppy yellow and blue; and beads in the same colors were tastefully used. Upon the dark sailor collar was laid another collar, a narrow Dutch collar of thinnest, white muslin edged daintily with colored embroidery.

The use of the two collars was seen upon a number of the best gowns and the combination of serge and silk was sometimes reversed, the heavier goods being employed in the main part of the dress, the soft silk as trimming. "Trimming," however, is quite as large a term, in this instance as in the dress itself, for where the broad bands and huge collars are used, about an equal amount of goods is absorbed each way.

Another novelty was the use of extremely wide, rather coarse soutache laid upon fine fabrics, silks, marcelles and even chiffons. Ball rings and buttons used in odd and unexpected ways form another feature of the spring gown for dressy occasions. I noticed a black satin in the semi-tailored style which had buttons of white pearl buttons sewed on with black silk, used in an ornamental way upon both skirt and jacket.

The touch of black and white, or white and black, as the case may be, is certain to be found upon gowns, suits and millinery. It is even more predominant than in coral and will, I believe, be a more lasting fad.

Was women are not forgetting the past while planning and executing their Easter costumes and whatever they may be as to color or fabric, you can carry it into your parlors, bedrooms and even children's rooms. Last summer it seemed as though there could be "nothing new under the sun" shade; but invention has been busy and the new stocks of "newness" are as delightfully novel as ever before. Handkerchiefs are a trifle less startling and bizarre than last season, variety being confined more to the silk and to the borders, for the "new" effect, so popular in dress fabrics, has found its way into the handkerchief. In a store which makes a specialty of such things, always have in the latest Parisian mode, I saw some extreme novelties in this line. One long-handled parasol of rajah was in the double square shape, as was the square of silk were placed over the other. Floral designs or in floral and acorn patterns, which were charming. In the black and white and white and black silks, to go with this much-sought combination in dress, there was a great variety. The prices at this place were such as to induce the economist open her eyes in wonder that such novelties could be produced for sums so small.

Hollywood Club.—Dr. Elbert Todd of Hollywood entertained the Women's Club there last Wednesday with a lecture on the Island of Elbe. It was the story of the nearly ten months of Napoleon's stay on the island he built two palaces, a theater, organized a navy out of his fishing smacks and an army of 1500 men, when there was a population of only 11,000. In short, he wore the people to such a frazzle that now, three generations since, they are still tired.

The club met in the Bungalow, and Miss M. Andrews and F. J. Ironmonger were hostesses. A philanthropic committee has been organized, with a fund, and the committee will do more work along this line than formerly.

Ibsen Club.—The Ibsen Club met Tuesday afternoon in the Shakespeare room of Camerock Hall to study the second and third acts of "The Vikings." Mrs. McClurkin led the discussion of Carl Lyde "Odin" and "The Nibelungen Lied" was also reviewed. Mrs. Milla Tupper Maynard, the club leader, gave an interesting talk on Bernard Shaw's comparison of the Wagner operas of the "Ring" series, especially the last, and Ibsen's "Viking."

Next Tuesday character sketches from "The Vikings" will be given and the Gladys Shakespeare Club has been invited to attend. Next week the club will change the day of meeting to Wednesday and "The Pretenders" will be taken up.

Drama Section Entertained.—On Thursday morning last Elbell Club members of the drama section were entertained by two one-act plays presented under the direction of Francis C. Egan. Advanced pupils of the Egan school made up the casts.

The works were Suderman's "The Last Visit" and Jerome K. Jerome's bright and clever "Sunset." In the first-named, the cast included Miss Emma, the "Clash" of the "Clash," Gladys Willet as Daisy, Veta Var. Houten as the mother, and Patsy Calhoun as Lieut. Von Walters.

In "Sunset" the characters and those who assumed them were, Lois, Ruth Gartland; Joan, Ruth Vernon; Asarah Stodd; J. A. Muller; Aunt Drusilla, Florence Sterling; Mr. Rivers, Patsy Calhoun; Laurence Leigh, Gordon J. Bartlett. The playlets were manifestly enjoyed, and the young participants received warm applause.

KIND HEARTS — GOOD DEEDS.—How far that little candle throws his beams! So shines a good deed in a naughty world!

The squirrels of Central Park, New York, have for fourteen years had a staunch friend in Mrs. A. F. Parsons Smith, who has provided for the little gray animals, and who daily visits the park with enough nuts to keep them strong and active during all kinds of weather. The other people who give them occasional nuts are looking for a little entertainment themselves, for which they are willing to pay the price of a bag of peanuts, but Mrs. Smith is thinking only of the health and comfort of the squirrels, and she devotes more time to their care than some women give to their own children.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."—The Lemon Tariff.—(To the Editor of The Times): "Where it is for the tariff you could buy this box of lemons $1.25 cheaper."

These words are stenciled on every box of Sicilian lemons sent out by the New York Importers. That this statement is true cannot be gainsaid, and if you figure on the greatest good for the greatest number, with the world at large as your field of operations, it would be a most desirable thing that there were no tariff, and any argument to the contrary could not be successfully maintained.

Free trade means, buying in the markets of the world where things are cheapest, and selling in the markets of the world where things are highest. Where labor is cheap its products are cheap.

It means that labor in America must compete with labor in Sicily, in India, and in China.

It means the man that is willing and can afford to work for 10 cents a day, will do the work unless the American wishes to compete at the same wage.

It means that people who never wore a decent suit of clothing, and from an American standpoint never ate a box of lemons, will be free from the pangs of hunger, will be your competitor in the struggle to live.

TUTOR PROVES TOO EFFECTIVE.

Defeats Vernon in Long and Exciting Contest.

Muff in Fourth Skins Seals Out of Early Victory.

Unassisted Double Play by Carlisle a Feature.

BY GREY OLIVER.

San Francisco, 3; Vernon, 2. Twelve innings.

About one more game like that one yesterday and Hap Hogan will find some day next week dragging a tomato can through ball park, "I want to be a Star-Hop, So I Can Cut Some Yee." Just one more and some of the fans will be demanding that they be given a sleeping tablet with every ticket that will put them on the blight until it is time to go home.

What they got was enough to put them to the bed, for with an early score of 2 to 0 against them, the Vernons managed to pull up even with the Seals and then when the Vernon pitcher was roused by hope, something came along to kiss them off the tree.

In the ninth inning McDowell got on third from his own double and Burrell's at first. Hap Hogan went to bat and evidently wanted to equal McDowell to the plate, but somehow they got their signs crossed, or these were detected, for when Sutor wasted a high ball, McDowell tried to score, but was easily caught at the plate by Burrell.

Again in the tenth, Carlisle, Carle and Rose singled as the first three men up, and yet with the bases full and no one out, Vernon could not score. Patterson fouled to Burrell, Brashear forced Castleton at second and Hopp forced Brashear at second.

In the eleventh, even with two out and three men on bases, Brown was out to bat for Carlisle, but he could do as was to be thrown out at first on a grounder to that invincible shortstop, Weaver.

However, the Vernons had little license to win, for Sutor was marvelously clever in the tight places and on the thing was played, we have beaten the locals in nine innings had not Madden muffed a fly that Brashear hit in the fourth inning. Brashear got to second on the run, ran to third when McDowell singled and scored on a double steal.

NO BUNGO HERE.

The Seals got their runs on the square. The first one started in the first inning, when Madden led off with his usual two-home swing. This time a lucky poke over third base. He easily scored when McDowell cracked the ball through the infield to center for a single. In the third Sutor singled to left and was forced at second by Madden. Mad stole second, got to third on McDowell's grounder to first and scored when Lewis hit to right field.

Hopp's single, McDowell's sacrifice and Burrell's single scored the second run for Vernon in the first inning.

After the third inning it was just like trying to pull a cat out of a bootleg for the Seals to get a run until they had played nearly an hour. They had a chance in the eighth and again in the eleventh but good work by Castleton tied them into a knot. They made but five runs off him in the third up to and including the eleventh but the support he got was just as good as the pitching and none of them could arrive.

Madden hit a triple in the eighth with two out but the next man grounded out at first and the prospective run died.

In the eleventh McDowell's jugle, a wild pitch and an infielder's error by Lewis almost made a run but when Lewis took a desperate chance and tried to score from second on the hit, he was thrown out at the plate by Brashear.

Sutor's pitching was just about as good as Castleton's and he certainly showed big league work in the ninth, tenth and eleventh innings when he kept Vernon from winning the game.

PINE FIELDING.

Even though the Vernons lost the fourth straight game the fans had some of their tears dried by the beautiful fielding shown principally by the Seals. The best thing by the Vernons was Brashear's first catch of Powell's fly back of first base in the sixth inning and Carlisle's unassisted double play in the seventh.

With one out and Weaver on first Tennant hit a fly to center and Weaver never stopped running until he got to third base. Carlisle grabbed the fly and seeing that Weaver had no chance to get back, he leisurely trotted toward the bench with the ball in his hand and stepping on first en route, completed a freak double play. It was only remarkable from the fact that four fans ever see an outfielder make a double play unassisted.

Inning after inning dragged out until the twelfth and then Carlisle began to get careless or weak. Powell was first to bat and he shot a single to right field. Mohler followed with a neat sacrifice and then Weaver fouled back of third base and in catching this ball Burrell made the really fine running catch of the game. Tennant broke up the game, however, with a sweet to right field, for Coy could not get the ball back to the plate in time to keep Powell from scoring the winning run.

LAST HOCKEY GAME.

Greens to Meet Reds in Last Game of Present Season on Old Polo Grounds at Santa Monica Today.

The hockey season will come to a close this afternoon if the Greens of Santa Monica win the fifth match in the last series of games with the Reds on the old Polo Grounds.

In the first series the Greens and Reds each won two games. The last and deciding match was one of the closest ever witnessed locally. When the whistle sounded for the first half the score was one goal each. The last half was productive of spectacular passing and forcing tactics, in which the Reds' forwards managed to get the ball down to the striking circle of their opponents and scored the winning hit just as the whistle blew to cease hostilities.

In the second series the Greens won the first two games; the third was a tie and the fourth went to the Reds. If the Reds win this afternoon the final game will be played next week.

It is contemplated winding up the hockey season with a supper and dance at the Ocean Park Auditorium. The past season has been a successful one. Los Angeles and Duarte have each won two games. P. J. Higgins is arranging the match with the champions, as he feels confident that his players know their positions and can give the Duartans a good game.

Duarte has won the championship Santa Monica has been runner-up twice. P. J. Higgins is arranging the match with the champions, as he feels confident that his players know their positions and can give the Duartans a good game.

More Tough Luck.

TENTH ROUND BEATS ANGELS.

SENATORS JUMP INTO LEAD IN EXTRA INNING.

Los Angeles Uses Three Pitchers in Effort to Win the Game—Error by Metzger Gives the Angels a Chance to Tie the Score—Two Singles Off Dehlí Lose the Game.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Once again a strong batting rally in the closing innings of the game offset costly errors, which had been made at earlier stages, and the Senators won in the tenth inning three twirlers in the efforts to stave off the hard hitting, which was forecast early in the game.

Bad errors on the part of the Sacramentoans in the seventh and eighth enabled the Angels to tie the score. Another error in the ninth helped them in putting the visitors on run to the good, but this was too much for the locals' pride and they proceeded to restore the score to a tie in their half of the ninth, and with one down in the tenth Thomas came to the front with his first hit of the day and brought Shinn in from third and the game was won, 4 to 2.

Today's game was a see-saw proposition from the seventh inning to the finish. Sacramento's heavy hitting finally outweighing the effectiveness of the Angels' three pitchers and swinging the game away from the southern boys. Sacramento bunched hits in the first two innings for two runs and this lead held good until the seventh.

In the seventh and eighth, Daley's pass, Delmas's double, Metzger's pass and Moore's triple on Thornton's throw, made a grand stand for the visitors. His long drive to center, netted the visitors two runs and the score was tied. And in the ninth, Stadell connected hereafter, and an error as his little mite, and Dillon was enabled to stretch his pass into a score, which looked like the game for the visitors.

With the score 3 to 2 against them, the Senators proceeded to redeem themselves in their half of the ninth. Daley gained a lead off his first swing. Metzger booted his drive, took second on Farrell's sacrifice and came home with the run which again tied the score. Heister's two-base drive down the first-base line.

In the tenth, the Angels looked dangerous after Akin had singled and reached second on a sacrifice. But Heister made up for his error earlier in the game by making a pretty running catch of Wheeler's long drive to center, and the game was tied at second when the Angel shortstop had anticipated a clean hit and started for home. Getting out of this tight hole in the last corner, the Senators proceeded to break up the game in their half of the tenth, the proverbial batting rally making its appearance. Daley and Delmas touched up for singles by Shinn and Thomas and a sacrifice by O'Rourke. This was enough. Shinn came across with the winning run and Sacramento had taken three out of four of the series thus far.

Daley was ordered to the clubhouse by Umpire Finley in the eighth when he pitched a ball over the fence, disrupting a running on balls and strikes despite Capt. Dillon's efforts to keep peace.

TIRES BURST; CRANE KILLED.

Speed Pilot, Who Held Record, Drives Last Race.

Car Is Hurled Over and Over. Neck Is Broken.

Mechanic Escapes With Slight Injuries.

(Associated Press Night Report.) KANSAS CITY, April 14.—Ned Crane, driving a Buick racing car in a practice test at Eldon track here today, preparatory to an attempt tomorrow to establish new records, was killed when his machine threw two tires and turned over.

An employee of the Buick factory riding with Crane, was dangerously injured.

Crane's body was not mangled or crushed. The car that he was driving, which was of ninety horse power, was making a fast turn on the west side of the track when the accident occurred. The front tire burst and the machine turned over three times.

Crane was thrown with great force to the hard dirt track. When he was picked up his head was doubled under his chest. A superficial examination indicated that his neck was broken. Bert Dodge, a mechanic, who was riding with Crane was also hurled from the car. He fell in the center of the track. His injuries are not considered dangerous.

Crane was the holder of three international motor car racing records. Until P. P. Collier, the New York publisher, died in April 1908, Crane was his driver. His home was in Philadelphia.

DUGAN BUMPING JOCKEYS AGAIN.

NOTORIOUS ROUGH RIDER TRIES ROUGH TACTICS.

Dugan Nag Into Fence in Race at Jamestown Track, Hurting Two Horses and Fatally Injuring a Horse—Set Down on the Ground for the Remainder of the Meeting.

(Associated Press Night Report.) HONOLULU (Pa.), April 14.—Several athletes added to the interest in today's race at the Jamestown track. The largest crowd of the meeting was present. Hoffman, with Olsen, won the 1000 foot comfort purse, with Guy Dugan a close second.

In the first race, won by Black Branch, Dugan bumped Jockey Bell and Olsen was so badly hurt that they had to be sent to the hospital.

There were twelve horses in this race and Olsen was on White, and Bell on Brown, were crowded against the rail in the back stretch. Adams' leg was broken and his arm lacerated by coming in contact with a fence. A referee ran into Bell's right arm and his left shoulder was injured. Jockey Hoffman on Foster was thrown in the back stretch and slightly injured.

Stella Dugan was blamed for the trouble and was suspended from riding during the rest of the present meeting. Dugan is said to have knocked Bell and Olsen's horse to throw White when Olsen won.

Who was so badly injured he was taken to the field. White was owned by the owners of Memphis and was considered a fair sprinter.

Five and one-half furlongs: Black Branch won, Bert Mont second, John Olsen third, time, 1:08.

Five and one-half furlongs: Cardiff won, Fappell second, Sixty third, time, 1:20.

Old Point Comfort purse, six furlongs: Hoffman won, Guy Fisher second, Michael Angelo third, time, 1:13.

Six furlongs: Son Cliff won, Danfield second, Rye Straw third, time, 1:13 4-5.

Seven furlongs: Col. Ashmeade won, Hoffman second, Laughing Eyes third, time, 1:27.

Eight and seventy yards: Third Rail won, Mr. Gal second, Idleweiss third, time, 1:28 1-2.

JOCKEY RULED OFF.

RALPH HANDED HIS HORSE.

(Associated Press Night Report.) HONOLULU (Pa.) April 14.—Jockey Ralph was ruled off the turf for life after bumping Judge Brown, owing to the jockey's riding of Gus Hart's horse in the second race at Kuprian track.

The reason given for the ruling was that Ralph apparently had kept the horse under a stout pull all the way, and that he had tried to win the race with a small margin. The meeting will close next Tuesday.

Summary: Six furlongs: Severa won, Black Branch second, time, 1:13.

ATHLETIC CLUB GYM STUNTS PLEASE LARGE CROWD PRESENT.

The campus non-stop run would be merely an incident as compared with the success of the Athletic Club troupe of acrobatic stunts artists if they should decide to perform the theatrical field, judging from the size of the crowd and the fun that the show last night.

Forty numbers of the highest class stunts performance ever staged by the troupe was provided for the host gathered in the club gymnasium.

Every member of the troupe made a number of himself, and Lou Morgan, who was stage manager and announcer, forever squared him with the large number of ladies who were looking which brought a number of horror to the members of the troupe who were assembled, according to the Bureau and Bailey ring, and comedy that both and Dill made the spectator think that the troupe were in a state of confusion.

Both Mr. Leonard and Miss Leighton are residents of Los Angeles. Miss Leighton first went on the stage with the Edgar Temple opera company, at the Auditorium. Mr. Leonard's characterization of "Fat," the college "goat" in "The Campus," has been one of the chief features in the long run of the piece.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Charles "Chick" Evans, western open golf champion, will compete in the British amateur championships at Prestwick, Scotland, next June. Evans said yesterday his entry has been sent in and unless rejected because of the technicality which has been brought up by some of the British golfers, because of the fight between this country and the St. Andrews Club, he will sail from New York on April 28.

"UMBRELLA" WRECKED.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) April 14.—The "umbrella aeroplane," owned by Cyrus McCormick, Jr., of Chicago, came to grief today in its initial test flight at the army post. After running over the field, but never rising, the aeroplane struck a depression. At the same time a gust of wind hit the machine. The result was a badly wrecked aeroplane. W. S. Rummo, the operator, escaped unhurt.

There are four events on the programme, in a 4:40 trot, 2:30 trot, 2:25 pace, 2:15 trot and an exhibition mile against time by William Garland's race, Kitty Bond. This is advertised as the feature of the afternoon. The programme is to be started about 1:30 o'clock, and is as follows:

The 2:40 trot: A. Cuthbert's Dena C. Spaulding's Debutante, William L. Spaulding's Jack, C. F. M. Stone's Cora, C. J. Berry's Hastings.

The 2:30 trot: C. J. Berry's Santa Paula Bell, W. G. Durfee's Maggie, C. J. Berry's Nellie Mc.

The 2:25 pace: Sam Watkins's Queen Cupid, E. E. Sherwood's Zon Woolsey, E. E. Sherwood's Diablo Bell, W. W. Whitney's Dolly Zombro.

The 2:15 trot: L. N. Merritt's Dick, NeSmith & Sons' Julia Clay, William Morgan's Crist.

his particular friends, each had the satisfaction of thinking he won.

Every seat in the gym was filled and standing room was at a premium. The gate receipts to be used to send L.A.C. wrestlers to the national championship tournament at Portland next month. Judging from the size of the house, there will be plenty to send a number of the best mat artists to the northern city.

For feats of skill the first honors of the evening, lie between Earl Neville, the fancy bag puncher, and the Glass-Jones duet of Roman ring artists. Neville beat a regular fatuous to the bladder, and his various manipulations resembled anything from a battle to a musical ditty. Glass and Jones displayed some remarkable feats of muscle control when they did numerous draw-ups and muscle grinds on the rings. Both boys were favorites with the crowd.

Parker and Whelan gave a handball exhibition for "ladies only." Many of them had never seen such a game, and Lou Guernsey explained the principles of the game. It was as good as an illustrated lecture and had a moving picture show tucked clear of the map.

BOWLING SCORES.

ADDIE JOSS DEAD.

GREAT TWIRLER PASSES.

(Associated Press Night Report.) TOLEDO (Ohio) April 14.—Adrian C. Joss, better known in the baseball world as "Addie," well-known pitcher of the Cleveland American League baseball team, died at his home here today at 11 o'clock this morning. Death was due to tubercular meningitis, from which he had been a sufferer since last Sunday.

Joss was 31 years old. He is survived by a widow and two children. He was a Thirty-second Degree Mason, and a member of the Mystic Shrine.

Joss joined the Cleveland Americans in 1903, under the management of William H. Armour, present owner of the Toledo club. He became one of the premier pitchers of the country and had the honor of pitching a no-hit, no-run game against the Chicago White Sox in 1906, his opponent being Ed Walsh.

Last year Joss's pitching arm was injured in a baseball game. He went to his home in this city and specialists found the trouble in the elbow. He continued having it treated and for a time it looked as if he would recover.

Trainer White of the Cleveland Club, treated Joss's arm for several weeks this winter and early this spring, pronouncing the pitcher in condition to take up his position in the box.

Joss began his baseball career in Jugeau, Wis., in 1895, with a semi-professional team. He was "discovered" by Charles J. Strobel, at that time owner of the Toledo Club in the Interstate League. Joss joined Toledo and was immediately one of the star twirlers of the league.

BIG BLACK BACK.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Sam Langford, the negro pugilist who is expected to wrest the championship laurels from Jack Johnson, returned to America on the Lusitania today after a three months' trip abroad. He is on his way to Weymouth, Nova Scotia, where his father is ill.

WHAT CONSTITUTES BEER?

Does the Label or the Contents, Is Questioned Jurors Apparently Divide on in Drug Company's Case.

The Lambert Drug Company, of Vermont avenue and Washington streets, was defendant before Justice at Williamstown yesterday. Police Station, yesterday, the charge being selling liquor without a physician's prescription.

It was a hard-fought case, with a laughable incident. Mrs. Alice S. Wells, the woman policeman, who has had considerable experience sniffing out illicit liquor selling, testified that she had bought two bottles of beer at the drug store; that the bottles were labeled and that they were given in the custody of the police, who carefully kept them until the day of the trial.

Dr. L. Hutchison, who represented the defense, asked the usual questions with reference to the witness's knowledge of the alcoholic qualities of the package she alleged she bought. She said she knew it was beer because of the label. But, alas, when the package was opened, the bottles contained no labels.

That, opined Hutchison, was a case of a woman's imagination. Hence, he reasoned that if she said the bottles were labeled and it was found that they bore none, it was reasonable to suppose that if she said they contained beer, they did not contain beer.

The jury gravely sampled the contents of the bottles, and although the wife of Officer Bussey testified and produced two labeled bottles she had bought at the drug store the day following Mrs. Wells's purchase, and these were sampled by the jury, the latter stood six to six and was discharged.

The case will be retried.

HOTELMAN MAKES CAPTURE.

Finke Stranger in Booth Acting Suspiciously on Telephone Pay Station Cash Box—Police Arrest Him. Rupert Allison, a neatly-dressed and apparently well-bred man of about 25, was arrested at the Hotel Nadeau last night by Patrolman Anthony Connelly on a charge of burglary. He is said to have been caught in the act of breaking open a telephone pay station cash box.

Complaints of the breaking of cash boxes on telephone stations had been coming in to the police since Thursday at which time, it is said that about seventeen boxes had been robbed.

Allison was in the long-distance booth of the Nadeau Hotel last night when Manager H. W. Alden of the hotel heard the buzzer sounding, and ran to the booth to investigate. He says he caught Allison in the act of breaking the box with a cigar-box opener.

The implement and a quantity of nickels were found in Allison's pocket when Officer Connelly arrested him. The prisoner denied his guilt.

BONDS SELL IN EAST.

A special dispatch received by The Times last night from Boston says that a $250,000 block of Los Angeles county highway bonds met with a ready sale to investors. The bonds bear 4 1-2 per cent. interest, maturing serially from 1915 to 1940 and sell to net 4.10 per cent. income after the accrued interest. They are a legal investment for Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont savings banks, and these institutions are among the largest buyers. Trustees of estates and trust funds and small investors are also purchasers.

His support of Lincoln at the outbreak of the war was one of the most striking acts of a great political career.

senator Douglas privately, and for two hours these two remarkable men—poets and statesmen—were conversed on the great national crisis.

The cabinetmaker and auctioneer's son, the brother of the great abolitionist, the great national part; had come to make peace, for the good of the country, with the railroad and foot-bound slave of Kentucky, now the President of the United States.

No witness was there to bear their words, and every day has its memories of their humble beginning, their encounters, as young lawyers in court, as statesmen in the United States Legislature; their great debates, that had made Lincoln a Presidential candidate, and the victor of them.

"No single act of a doubtful life," says Nicolay and Hay in their life of Lincoln, "so strongly marks his gift for leadership as the crisis he accepted the new issue, and without a woman's hesitation came forward and led the people to the rescue of the government—the first, the last, the greatest war."
